Art. 3

Additional PhD reserved to candidates employed by companies, institutes or public research centres in highly qualified positions and additional PhD positions in higher-education apprenticeships

1. Employees of companies, institutes or public research centres in highly qualified positions may be assigned, while keeping their job position and stipend, specific positions within a PhD course accredited as industrial. For these positions, the training objectives and research activities are arranged between the University and the company, institute or public research centre by means of a specific agreement. A member of the company can take part in the selection procedure. Candidates' interviews will include a discussion of the research topics proposed by the company. A separate ranking list is drawn up for these candidates. An agreement between the University and the company must be formalised. It will specify, among other things, the conditions and nature of the research to be carried out at the company, institute or public research centre and the division of the employee's time. Candidates applying for these positions must enclose to the application their employment contract or a declaration of the company stating an employment relationship lasting at least as long as the duration of the PhD program.
2. If the conditions exist, it is possible to establish PhD positions in apprenticeships with companies. This type of contract allows graduates aged up to 29 years to enrol in a PhD course and get simultaneously employed by a company. A separate ranking list is drawn up for these candidates. A member of the company can take part in the selection procedure. The Committee will examine, at the end of the interview, also the research topics proposed by the company. These positions will be activated provided that the company identifies a candidate suitable for their needs and that an agreement is formalised, specifying, among other things, the conditions and nature of the research to be carried out at the company, institute or public research centre and the division of the employee's time.
3. Candidates interested in these positions must select the appropriate administrative category during the application procedure, if available for their chosen PhD course.

Art. 4

Additional positions reserved to candidates with a scholarship from a foreign country, additional positions reserved to candidates holding a scholarship from a specific international mobility program, additional positions with scholarship reserved to candidates who graduated abroad

1. The "Additional positions reserved to candidates with a scholarship from a foreign country" are reserved to candidates holding, at the time of the enrollment onto the PhD course, a scholarship of the same duration of the PhD course. The University of Pavia does not provide PhD scholarships for such positions. Applications for the "Additional positions reserved to candidates with a scholarship from a foreign country" and the "Additional positions reserved to candidates holding a scholarship from a specific international mobility program" will be subject to a check by the University administration on the actual availability of the funding whose ownership is declared by the candidate. Candidates are admitted to the PhD course after the assessment of the qualifications presented and, unless otherwise specified in Annex 1 for the course selected, an interview, also by videoconference, aimed at verifying the candidate's preparation, ability and aptitude for research, as well as knowledge of the Italian and/or English language. Candidates must select the appropriate administrative category, if available for their chosen PhD course, during the application procedure. The examining committee will draw up specific reports and separate ranking lists.
2. "Additional position with scholarship reserved to candidates graduated abroad" are reserved to candidates holding a second-level university degree attained abroad. Candidates will be selected through a qualification assessment and an interview via videoconference. Candidates must select the appropriate administrative category, if available for their chosen PhD course, during the application procedure. The examining committee will draw up specific reports and a separate ranking list. In case no candidate is suitable for such a position, the scholarship will be assigned to the candidate suitable for regular positions without scholarship, using the ranking order as the criterion for assignment.

Art. 5

Selection procedure

1. Admission to the PhD courses is subject to the passing of a selection procedure aimed at assessing candidates' competence, ability and aptitude for research. In Annex 1 the tests dates and locations, selection procedures and notes for each PhD competition are listed.
2. The selection procedure can be of three types:

- a. Selection procedure by qualifications assessment and tests (written test and interview)

The selection procedure by qualifications assessment and tests consists of a comparative assessment of the qualifications submitted by candidates, as well as two tests (written test and interview).

The admission tests consist of a written test and an interview, including a verification of candidates' knowledge of a foreign language, selected from those listed for each PhD course and indicated by the candidate in the application.

The examining committee can assign up to 30 points per test for the evaluation of each candidate.

The written test may consist of examinations, exercises and essays on topics related to the PhD course.

Candidates who have passed the written test with a score of 21 points or more are admitted to the interview. The interview is deemed to have been passed if a candidate obtains a score of 21 points or more.

If specified in Annex 1, candidates can ask to be interviewed via videoconference, by selecting the appropriate option during the online application procedure (see art. 5).

Unless otherwise specified in Annex 1, the examining committee can assign up to 10 points for candidates' qualifications for each PhD course, divided as indicated in Annex 1. The qualifications assessment takes place after the written test and before the correction of the papers. The results of the qualifications assessment will be announced before the interview.

- b. Selection procedure by qualifications assessment and interview

Unless otherwise specified in Annex 1, the examining committee can assign up to 10 points for candidates' qualifications, divided as specified in Annex 1 for each PhD course. For each PhD course, a minimum threshold may be set for admittance to the interview, as indicated in Annex 1. The results of the qualifications assessment will be announced before the interview, with the modalities and timing indicated in Annex 1.

The interview includes a verification of candidates' knowledge of a foreign language, selected from those listed for each PhD course. The examining committee may assign up to 30 points as an interview points scale. The interview is deemed successful if a candidate obtains a score of 21 points or more.

c. Selection procedure by qualifications assessment only

Unless otherwise specified in Annex 1, the examining committee can assign up to 10 points to candidates' qualifications for each PhD course, divided as indicated in Annex 1. Candidates who have obtained at least 6 points out of 10 are admitted to the ranking list.

The knowledge of a foreign language among those listed in Annex 1 for each PhD course is a mandatory requirement. In case this requirement is not met, the interview is not deemed successful. The linguistic skills do not provide for additional points, unless otherwise specified in Annex 1.

3. The examining committee will draw up specific reports. Candidates will be ranked in descending order by totaling the scores obtained by each candidate in the scheduled tests and the qualifications assessment.
4. The rankings can be managed in four ways, which must be declared in Annex 2 of the call:
  1. single ranking with eligibility option (type A): candidates can apply for more than one of the available topic-related scholarships / locations. Candidates who express interest - according to the procedures mentioned in the call for applications – for one or more topic-related scholarships / locations are included in the ranking of regular positions, with possible assignment of eligibility for these topic-related scholarships / locations. To be awarded a topic-related scholarship / location, it is necessary to be declared as eligible for it. Anyone who is eligible for a topic-related scholarship / location and is in a useful position for its assignment has the obligation to accept the topic-related scholarship / location, otherwise he or she will be excluded. In case of eligibility for more than a topic-related scholarship / location, the candidate will be able to choose which one to opt for.
  2. single ranking with positions assigned by the Academic Board, based on the candidates' preferences and the criteria indicated in the call (type B): candidates express preference for one or more topic-related scholarships / locations and become eligible for all the positions available. They are placed in a single ranking. At the end of the enrollment process, the assignment of topic-related scholarships / locations is determined by the Academic Board based on the preferences expressed during the admission step, using the ranking order as a criterion, until the topic related scholarships / locations are exhausted. The first candidate, in order of ranking, who cannot satisfy the expressed preference, will be assigned a different type of position, according to the criterion set out in the call for applications (Annex 1). In case of withdrawal, the position of the dropout candidate is assigned to the first of those eligible. In the case of scholarships with particular restrictions, submitting an application for the PhD competition entails acceptance of the most restrictive requirements and obligations (e.g. entrance qualification, compulsory mobility abroad, etc.).

3. separate rankings (type C): candidates can compete for only one of the available topic-related scholarships / locations, expressing a single preference according to the procedures mentioned in the call for applications. These candidates' interviews will therefore also include a discussion of the project topics, if applicable, and the examining committee will draw up a specific ranking list. In case of renunciation or failure to enrol, moving down the ranking list is only possible within the specific ranking. By competing for the assignment of a topic-related scholarship / location, the candidate is excluded from the assignment of any other type of place, including regular positions.
4. single ranking with positions assigned by the Academic Board (type D): candidates become eligible for all the positions available and are included in a single ranking. At the end of the enrollment process, the assignment of topic-related scholarships / locations is determined by the Academic Board, using the ranking order as a criterion, until all available places are filled. In case of withdrawal, the position of the dropout candidate is assigned to the first of those eligible. In the case of scholarships with particular restrictions, submitting an application for the PhD competition entails acceptance of the most restrictive requirements and obligations (e.g. entrance qualification, compulsory mobility abroad, etc.).

A mixed mode is also possible.

5. If candidates have an identical score on the ranking list, the positions with scholarship will be awarded on a means basis, pursuant to D.P.C.M. of April 9, 2001 and subsequent modifications and additions; for positions without a scholarship, the youngest candidate will have priority.
6. The President of the Committee will submit to the University Administration the competition reports.
7. The admission tests schedule, indicated in Annex 1 of this call, is equivalent to a notification to applicants. Possible modifications in the dates and locations of the tests will be announced on the <http://phd.unipv.it/call-41/> website. Candidates will not receive any further communication from the University administration office.
8. Candidates will be asked to show a valid identity document.
9. Failure to take part in the admission tests will be considered as constituting a withdrawal from the application process.

Art. 9

Admission to the PhD courses

1. The Rector, by Rectoral Decree, acts to verify the validity of the competition records and approves the ranking lists. Candidates who have placed highly on each ranking list are declared winners, provided they meet the admission requirements for access to the PhD competition and enrolment onto a PhD course.
2. Candidates are admitted to the PhD courses in the ranking list order until all positions for the given PhD course are taken. Should a candidate decide not to take up their place before the start of the course, their place may be taken by other candidates following the ranking list order. Should a candidate win more than one competition, they will have to choose only one PhD course and communicate this choice in writing.
3. Before the beginning of the educational activity of the PhD course, additional students already selected by specific committees in the framework of international programs involving the University of Pavia can be admitted to the course.
4. The ranking lists will be published on the University's official noticeboard <http://www-5.unipv.it/alboufficiale/> and on the https://studentionline.unipv.it/esse3/Home.do?cod\_lingua=eng website. In order to check their results, candidates have to login by entering the username and password provided at the end of the registration procedure, click on "Admissions" from the top right menu and then on "Admission test". Candidates will not be informed personally: the publication of the ranking list is equivalent to an official notice to applicants.

Art. 10

Public Administration employees

1. Prevailing laws regarding time off work or special leave will apply to any public administration employees admitted onto a PhD course.

Art. 11

Enrolment

1. Candidates can appeal against the approval of the ranking list to the TAR (Regional Administrative Tribunal) within 60 days from the publication of the results on the University's official noticeboard, or make a special appeal to the President of the Republic within 120 days; in the absence of an appeal, the provision shall be incontrovertible.
2. Successful applicants must enrol in the PhD course by following the instructions provided at <http://phd.unipv.it/call-41/>.
3. Successful applicants who do not yet hold the second-level degree necessary to enrol in a PhD course will be conditionally admitted. By October 31, 2025 they will have to provide the University Administration office with proof of graduation by following the procedure described in Art. 2, para. 1.

4. Candidates in possession of an academic degree obtained in a non-EU country, if successful, will have to provide the University administration, within 12 months from the enrollment date, legalized degree certificates, bearing the list of the exams taken during their academic career and the marks obtained, as well as one of the following documents, at their choice:

- a. the original "Dichiarazione di Valore in Loco" (Declaration of Value), issued by the competent Italian diplomatic representative in the country where the academic qualification has been attained;
- b. statement of comparability and verification issued by ENIC-NARIC centers (CIMEA).

In case of documents in a language different from Italian or English candidates will have to submit, together with the original documents, their sworn and legalized translation into Italian or English. The University administration reserves the right to ask students to provide additional documents if necessary to carry out the appropriate checks on the degree. The Administration office also reserves the right to ask students holding a foreign degree obtained within the EU to provide the "Dichiarazione di Valore in Loco" in cases where its validity is doubted.

5. Upon enrolment, non-EU citizens must submit to the Administration office, within a deadline agreed with the office, a photocopy of their residence permit or application for the residence permit.
6. Competition winners will have to pay, through the payment notice provided at the end of the application procedure, the enrollment fee, amounting to € 156.00.
7. Successful candidates with scholarship, who do not enrol and pay the enrolment fee by the deadline of 5 days from the day following the publication online (https://studentonline.unipv.it/esse3/Home.do?cod\_lingua=eng) of the ranking list, will be considered as having forsaken their position.

Successful candidates without scholarship, who do not enrol and pay the enrolment fee by the deadline of 7 days from the day following the publication online (https://studentonline.unipv.it/esse3/Home.do?cod\_lingua=eng) of the ranking list, will be considered as having forsaken their position.

8. In case of any renunciations of the entitled candidates before the beginning of the training activities of the PhD course, the positions will be proposed to the following successful candidates in the final ranking. These candidates will be duly informed by e-mail and, if interested, will have to enroll and pay the enrollment fee as per para. 7 within the peremptory deadline of 3 days from the receipt of the e-mail. After that time, the candidate will be considered as having forsaken the position.
9. The University Administration reserves the right to check the validity of winners' declarations. Any applicants found to have made false statements will lose the benefits deriving from these declarations.
